INTRODUCTION: -

Chronic diseases like hypertension diabetes require lifestyle modifications for the management. It is seen that poor-quality sleep due to various sleep disorders can initiate or aggravate hypertension and metabolic disorders.

Sleep disturbances are common and are often undiagnosed among people Obstructive sleep apnoea (OSA) is a common disorder where individuals breathe normally during wakefulness but in sleep there is recurrent complete or partial upper airway obstruction, resulting in intermittent hypoxemia, oxygen desaturation, hypercapnia and sleep fragmentation. (1-4,6,8) OSA phenotypes are identified that vary in the pathogenesis which give a greater insight into its management (5). Individuals with OSA are usually obese, complain of excess daytime sleepiness, morning headaches, snoring and gasping at night (1).

OSA is a recognized cause of secondary hypertension as it causes overactivity of the sympathetic nervous system, alterations in the structure and function of vascular system due to intermittent hypoxia and hypercapnia (2,3). It is also a established risk factor for resistant hypertension (4).

Even mild OSA if untreated can lead to increased cardiovascular morbidity and mortality (3). Sleep disorders are seen in 40% to 80% of patients with hypertension, coronary artery disease (CAD), and heart failure.

It is important to note and examine the risk factors of OSA in hypertension for better management of hypertension and good patient outcome. OSA can then be confirmed by the gold standard polysomnography and managed using CPAP. (1)

In our study we will be assessing the risk factors of OSA in hypertensive patients using the STOP BANG questionnaire, and assessing the airway using Mallampati score. (9,10) We hypothesize that higher scores of the above parameters, higher the risk of OSA leading to poor control of hypertension.

OBJECTIVES: -

1. To assess risk of OSA using STOP-BANG questionnaire in hypertensive patients
2. To assess the airway patency using Mallampati score as a risk factor of OSA in Hypertensive patients.
3. To observe association of severity of Hypertension with STOP BANG score
4. To observe association of severity of Hypertension with Mallampati score
5. To observe association of STOP BANG score with Mallampati score

METHODOLOGY: -

- Study Design-

1. This is an observational, cross sectional study carried out in the Physiology Department in collaboration with Medicine and Cardiology department of MGM hospital, Kamothe, Navi Mumbai after the approval by Institutional Ethics Committee.
2. Sample size: 100 patients.

- Inclusion criteria of subjects-

The study will be conducted on hypertensive patients, both male and female, in the age group of 30-60 years.

- Exclusion criteria of subjects-

Excluding the patients who have Co-morbidity like Diabetes, Renal diseases, Asthma, respiratory disorders, anxiety disorders.

- Material-

1. STOP-BANG questionnaire- It is a concise, easy-to-use screening tool use to assess the prevalence of OSA. It consists of 8 dichotomous (Yes/No) items related to the clinical features of sleep apnea. The total score ranges from 0 to 8. Patients can be classified for OSA risk based on their respective scores (4). It enquires about Snoring, tiredness, Gasping, Blood pressure, BMI, age, neck circumference and sex.

STOP-BANG scores-

- 0-2 :- Low risk of OSA
- 3-4 :- Moderate risk of OSA
- >5 :- High risk of OSA

2. Libra Weighing machine for checking the weight in Kilograms

3. Height will be recorded in centimeters

4. Measuring tape for measuring neck circumference

5. Torch for examining the oral cavity

- Method-

1. Approval by Institutional Ethics Committee will be obtained.
2. After diagnosis of hypertension by the physician in the Medicine department the participant will be referred for this study. Based on the Blood Pressure we can categorize the participants into as per Seventh Report of the Joint National Committee (JNC7)

Blood Pressure Classification	SBP mmHg	DBP mmHg
Normal	<120	<80
Prehypertension	120–139	or 80–89
Stage 1 Hypertension	140–159	or 90–99
Stage 2 Hypertension	>160	or >100

3. Written informed consent will be obtained from the participants (sample size 100) in their local languages.

4. Participant fills in

- a. Case study form
- b. STOP-BANG questionnaire (provided in local languages) is filled for which we need to measure and calculate
 - a. Height is measured in centimeters
 - b. Weight is measured in Kilograms
 - c. Body Mass Index (BMI) is calculated

○

Body Mass Index (BMI = kg/m²) is calculated by measuring the weight in Kilograms and height in centimeters.

Categories based on Asian BMI are

- Underweight : <18.5
- Normal : 18.5–22.9
- Overweight : 23–24.9
- Obese : ≥25

Neck circumference is measured perpendicular to the long axis of the neck at a point just below the larynx Adam's Apple and while the person is looking straight ahead during measurement, with shoulders down (not hunched). Round the neck measurement up to nearest ½ inch.

- In females > 16 inches
- In males > 17 inches is a risk factors associated with OSA

5. STOP-BANG Scores are calculated and based on their responses they are divided into 3 groups, low, moderate and High risk of OSA.

6. Mallampati Score- It is used mainly to predict ease of endotracheal intubation and it also helps to note the grade of OSA. The score is assessed by asking the patient, in a sitting posture, to open their mouth and to protrude the tongue as much as possible (5). With all the required precautions and physical distancing patient is asked to open the mouth and from a distance, oral cavity of patient is examined and based on Mallampati scores patients will be categorized into 4 groups

- Class 1: Visualization of the soft palate, fauces, uvula, both anterior and posterior pillars
- Class 2: Visualization of the soft palate, fauces, uvula
- Class 3: Visualization of the soft palate and base of the uvula
- Class 4: Soft palate is not visible at all.

7. Observation of association of severity of Hypertension with STOP BANG score

8. Observation of association of severity of Hypertension with Mallampati score

9. Observation of association of STOP BANG score with Mallampati score

● Statistical tests for analysis:-

1. Descriptive statistics in terms of percentage and frequency.
2. Chi square test.
3. Logistic Regression.
4. Wilcoxon Rank Sum Test/Mann Whitney Test

IMPLICATIONS: -

Incidence of hypertension is increasing and it needs to be managed well to prevent its aggravation. Poor control of blood pressure can lead coronary artery disease (CAD) and heart failure.

OSA is a risk factor for hypertension. Even a mild case of OSA has shown to increase the cardiovascular morbidity and mortality. Screening the cases by the physician for OSA by assessing for risk factors and timely diagnosis by polysomnography (PSG) and treatment by CPAP is crucial to prevent many cardiometabolic disorders.

Awareness among the doctors and patients can help in proper treatment of hypertension with a positive patient outcome.

INTRODUCTION

The novel coronavirus SARS-CoV-2 due to its highly contagious nature was declared as a pandemic and an international concern by the World Health Organization at the end of 2019.

Alongside its pathophysiological manifestations, the trauma of isolation, worry of infecting family and friends, witnessing of events in the ward of other patients and death, all this in addition to the uncertainty of the prognosis and long-term effects of COVID-19 can have serious ill-effects on the mental health of patients, even long after they recover from the virus itself. [1] This can lead to serious distress and even disability in normal day-to-day functioning, eventually taking a chronic course. [6]

There are concerns about a parallel psychological pandemic. A study highlighted that the emotional turmoil of COVID-19 patients like fear, anxiety, insomnia, etc. can develop into disorders – depression, anxiety, even suicide. [3] Although the exact effects of these psychiatric complications are not yet fully known in COVID-19 survivors, the effect of COVID-19 pandemic may be compared to the previous corona virus epidemics: severe acute respiratory (SARS) and Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS), that evidenced increased prevalence of anxiety, depression, and neurocognitive impairment in survivors, even 1 year after discharge. [7] Such mental states are especially observed in vulnerable groups like the immuno-compromised, aged, healthcare workers, the last group especially reporting high rates of anxiety and stress symptoms. [3]

Keeping in mind the various medical, social, economic aspects of this pandemic, a lack of psychosocial support practice, and evidence from past tragedies, we hypothesize a spike in the incidence of generalized anxiety disorder in COVID-19 survivors, especially those belonging to the medical fraternity.

OBJECTIVES:

1. To assess mental health in COVID-19 survivors using the Generalized Anxiety Disorder 7-item scale.
2. To associate mental health of COVID-19 survivors with socio demographic factors, comorbid conditions, lifestyle, wave of pandemic and environmental parameters during the pandemic.
3. To compare the association in healthcare versus non-healthcare workers.

METHODOLOGY:

Study Design:

- This descriptive cross sectional study will be conducted in MGM Hospital, Kamothe, Navi Mumbai after the approval by the institutional ethics committee (IEC).
- Informed consent of participants will be obtained.

Sampling strategy:

- Systematic Random sampling of COVID-19 survivors who were hospitalized at MGM Hospital, Kamothe between May 2020 to December 2021 will be done.
- Sample size: 200

Inclusion criteria: COVID-19 survivors who were hospitalized at MGM Hospital, Kamothe between May 2020 to December 2021 will be done and are at least 18 years of age. Doctors, nurses, and lab technicians will be considered as healthcare workers and grouped accordingly.

Exclusion criteria: COVID-19 survivors who were hospitalized at MGM Hospital, Kamothe between May 2020 to December 2021 suffering from previous mental illness, pregnant women and those who do not volunteer to participate.

Material:

Generalized Anxiety Disorder 7-item Scale

The 7-item Generalized Anxiety Disorder Scale (GAD-7) is a practical self-report anxiety questionnaire that may be used to measure the anxiety in the general population. [9]

GAD-7 Total Score Symptom Range

0-4 Minimal Anxiety

5-9 Mild Anxiety

10-14 Moderate Anxiety

15-21 Severe Anxiety

METHOD:

1. IEC approval
2. List of COVID 19 survivors from systematically randomised sample will be obtained from Post COVID-19 OPD).
3. Researcher will telephonically contact the COVID -19 survivors
4. Informed consent from participant will be obtained.
5. The case study form and GAD-7 details will be obtained.
6. The GAD-7 will be analyzed and categorized as per their scores.
7. Association of generalized anxiety disorder amongst both health care workers and non-health care workers will be done
8. Association of the GAD-7 scores will be made with the following parameters:
 - Age
 - Sex
 - Body weight
 - Disease severity and wave of pandemic
 - Time since recovery (minimum 1 month) and time taken to recover
 - Co-morbid conditions
 - COVID-related complications
 - Reinfection
 - Vaccination
 - Stigma
 - Fear of infecting others
 - Perceived threat to life
 - Psychological support available

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS:

Frequency (rates and proportion of variables)

Multivariate analysis (includes correlation and regression)

Theory of attributes

Tests of significance (for both variables and attributes)

IMPLICATIONS:

The World Health Organization draws direct correlation between psychological factors and morbidity and mortality globally, thus calling attention to mental health research and reforms in conjunction with infectious outbreaks. [3]

Through this study, we wish to emphasize on screening for mental health in COVID-19 survivors which could greatly reduce the morbidity and improve their quality of life. [8]

Establishing the factors impacting the mental health along with other variables like Sex, Obesity, co-morbidity, stigma, and psychological support available during the of COVID-19 infection will be done.

By doing this, we hope to gain insight into the kind of reforms that might be needed for any infectious outbreaks or pandemics and contribute to the establishment of a universal protocol or guideline for psychological support for people affected by a pandemic.

What is the purpose of the study?

The purpose of this study is to find the effect of COVID-19 on the mental health of those who were infected and recovered from the disease and to make a comparison of the impact in two populations – healthcare workers versus non-healthcare workers.

Why have I been invited to participate in this study?

You are eligible to participate as you fulfill the inclusion criteria for the following study.

What is the study procedure?

This study is a questionnaire based study. The individuals who tested positive for COVID-19 by the RTPCR test will be assessed for generalized anxiety. The responses will be evaluated to see the impact of COVID-19 on the mental health of the affected individual. An association and comparison will be drawn between the impacts on mental health of healthcare versus non-healthcare workers.

Information that has been collected from you, prior to your withdrawal, will continue to be used in the data analysis. No new information will be collected or used after you have withdrawn from the study.

What does the study involve?

This study involves detecting the levels of anxiety in patients who were diagnosed with and recovered from COVID-19 with the help of a questionnaire and study the relation of mental health changes in healthcare versus non-health care workers.

What about my confidentiality/privacy?

This information will be kept confidential and will be used only for scientific reasons and at no point in time the participant's identity will be disclosed during publication. Patient's information will not be shared with any third party except proper authorities.
